How a protected application finds its license

This chapter describes the different license file types, where an application searches for its license, and how to add or remove license files from the license path environment variable. It also describes additional environment variables you can optionally set for your license.