

Configuring data sharing settings

The information on this page refers to License Statistics v6.1 and newer, which improved the organization of the Administration: User Interface page. If you are using a version previous to v6.1, see documentation for previous versions.

License Statistics administrators can configure settings for sharing anonymous information about how you use License Statistics. If sharing is enabled, your anonymous data is collected and sent to X-Formation for the purpose of improving the quality of the product. By default, the collection of anonymous usage statistics is disabled.

Reasons for collecting usage statistics

X-Formation is trying to better understand how you are using License Statistics, so that we can continue to develop a high-quality product that further improves user experience.

Information collected

If you indicate your agreement, License Statistics will collect the following information:

- most frequently used usage reports
- most commonly used License Statistics versions
- the number of sessions in which a page was viewed
- average session duration
- other anonymous metrics

Enabling or disabling the collection of information

You can enable/disable information collection at any time by toggling on/off the "Share anonymous statistics" option, located under the Agreements area of the Administration: User Interface page. (This page is not visible to non-administrative License Statistics users.)

If you do not enable information collection as described above, you will be asked whether you agree to participate in anonymous information collection whenever you log into License Statistics for the first time after a fresh installation. After you respond to this prompt, it will not appear again until License Statistics is reinstalled (and will not appear if you have toggled on information collection, as described above).
