Trial version

Can I get a free trial version of License Statistics?

You can download a free 30-day License Statistics trial from the License Statistics download page to test realtime functionality and imported log files for up to 50 servers and 10,000 users.

Note that realtime denials and log importation is limited. When importing usage and monitoring denials, any data older than the trial start date in the imported log will not be included in the imported data.

For more information, see Running License Statistics.

Can I install the License Statistics on a Linux machine and view results on a Windows machine?

All License Statistics data for all monitored applications is accessed from an online, easy-to-use UI.

For more information, see Using License Statistics UI.

What operating systems does License Statistics run on?

You can install License Statistics on Windows or Linux. For Windows installation instructions, see Installing License Statistics on Windows. For Linux installation instructions, see Installing License Statistics on Linux.

Do you have examples of License Statistics reports?

Our website includes a full collection of dynamic reports generated by License Statistics. This live demo shows the graphs and information that License Statistics produces, including examples of standard current and historical usage, denied users, and license availability and expiration information.
